THE SUNDRY CIVIL BILL.

An Important Amendment Reforming the Administration of Federal Courts.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—[Special.]—The house to-day, on motion of Randall, chairman of the appropriations committee, took up, under suspension of the rules, and passed the sundry civil appropriation bill, with several amendments, the most important of which was the substitute offered by Springer, chairman of the committee on expenditures in the department of justice, for that portion of the bill which provides for the expenses of United States courts, and which was recommended by that committee for means of preventing wholesale frauds practiced by United States marshals and other officers of federal courts, which have been unearthed by the committee in its investigations of the workings of the department under the fee system. By the provisions of this amendment United States marshals are given a fixed annual salary, payable monthly, and ranging from $3000 to $6000, according to the business done in their several districts. The United States marshal for California will receive a salary of $5000 a year.

Under the provisions of the bill a limit is placed on sums allowed for transportation of prisoners and guards, for expenses incurred in going to serve or returning from serving writs, and for the traveling and other expenses of officers of a court; and in no case are such sums to exceed the actual amounts paid, and officers are required to make affidavit that the amount is just and true in all respects before payment shall be made.

A GOOD THING FOR THE SOUTH.

Very little opposition was made to the adoption of the amendment. The passage of this measure is one of the wisest acts of legislation accomplished this session. The disclosures of unparalleled systematic fraud and corruption in the administration of federal courts, especially those in the south, made by the Springer investigation committee, rendered some legislation of this kind necessary, and the abolishment of the fee system will prove of incalculable benefit to the people of the south, as well as greatly reduce the expenses of the government in keeping up federal courts in that section. The scandals brought to light by the committee in its investigations into the methods of administering justice in some of the southern states were of such a nature as to call for immediate and thorough reform. Outrages were shown before the committee to have been committed on peaceful and law-abiding citizens in some parts of the country. Men who had committed no crime were taken from their homes and dragged hundreds of miles, in some cases, to prison, and their cases continued from one term to another, putting them to great inconvenience and expense before they were given a trial, for no reason but that marshals and other officers of federal courts might obtain fees. These convinced the committee that the abolishment of the fee system was the only means by which reform such as was needed could be reached. This law is one of the greatest blessings which could have been given the people of the south, who for years have been at the mercy of a horde of these unscrupulous officials.

THE MEXICAN PENSION BILL.

It Passes the Senate with an Important Amendment, and will Probably Pass the House.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—[Special.]—The senate to-day passed the Mexican pension bill, by a vote of 37 to 27. Four democratic senators voted for the passage of the bill, and two republicans against it. The democrats who voted for the bill were Butler, George, Lamar and Ransom, and the republican senators who voted against it were Edmunds and Hawley. In addition to the amendments adopted yesterday the senate to-day agreed to an amendment by Senator Mitchell that no person shall be entitled to more than one pension at the same time, which prevents persons already on the pension rolls from receiving any further benefits. Senator Williams and his colleagues on the democratic side fought vigorously against the adoption of the Mitchell amendment, which gives a pension to all disabled soldiers of the late war who served for a period of three months and increases the rate of the pension of widows and minor children of soldiers, and soldiers who are now receiving under existing laws the sum of $8 per month to $12 per month. The democrats insisted that the amendment would increase the cost of pensions from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000, but Senator Mitchell, chairman of the pensions committee, and received a carefully prepared estimate from the commissioner of pensions, showing that the cost would be but $12,500,000. The bill provides for the payment of a pension of $8 per month to soldiers of the Mexican war and provides that they shall also be entitled to the same rate for disabilities as is now paid to soldiers of the war of the rebellion. Democratic senators profess to believe that the house will not concur in the senate amendments to the bill, and charge that these amendments were put in the bill for the purpose of defeating it. Representative Lovering of Massachusetts, who was the author of the bill now pending before the house committee on invalid pensions, to grant a pension of $8 per month to all soldiers and sailors of the late war who served three months, said to-night that he thought there would be enough votes in the house in favor of the Mexican pension bill as it passed the senate to secure concurrence in the senate amendments.

ACCIDENTS.

A DERRICK FALLS FROM A TOWER.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The derrick on the tower of Grace church, used in hoisting stone and building material for the new steeple, fell to-day, carrying with it a mass of timber and rigging. Joseph McKee, derrick rigger, and Robert Sampson, mason, were caught in the ropes. McKee was rescued and sent to the hospital, where his wounds were pronounced probably fatal. Sampson was caught in the rigging some distance below the edge of the tower, and remained there for a long time, suspended 165 feet over the street. He was finally rescued, and was lowered to the ground and sent to the hospital. Recovery is doubtful. Several large stones crushed through the roof of the church, and did damage amounting to $5000. The accident was caused by the foot of the derrick tipping as it was being raised. The accident caused great excitement, and throngs of people gathered in the streets to see the rescue of Sampson.

THE WRECK OF THE MORNING STAR.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—The crew of the brig Morning Star, wrecked on the island of Kusaie, Micronesia, proceeded in the steamship Oceanic to San Francisco. The brig was in charge of the first mate, en route to Honolulu. Kusaie is the island on which the first Morning Star, the missionary ship of the American board, was wrecked in 1869, when a strong current drifted her ashore in a calm. The new vessel to take the place of the one now wrecked is already on the stocks at Bath, Maine. She will be arranged for the use of auxiliary steam power, for safety in calms and currents. It will be necessary for the board at once to charter a vessel at Honolulu, to complete the work of the present year in Micronesia. The last vessel was insured.

BURIED IN A TUNNEL.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, June 24.—A portion of a tunnel on the Panhandle railroad, west line, which was nearly completed, caved in this morning, burying eight men and one boy. Four of the party are thought to be fatally injured, and the others badly, but not seriously, hurt. The men were mostly Italians.

PANIC AT A CHILDREN'S ENTERTAINMENT.

NEW LONDON, June 23.—While the cold water army of children were giving an entertainment this evening a temporary pyramid on the stage gave way and seventy-five children fell with it but none were injured. A lighted kerosene lamp fell at the same time, and a panic ensued, but with no serious results.

NOTES FROM NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, June 24.—Times-Democrat's Tigerville special: The sugar house of J. P. Viguirio, on bayou Black, was demolished by a cyclone. No other damage is reported.

Overflow water is falling. Some land is uncovered, but too late for crops.

A FATAL DIVE.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Joseph Colemore attempted to dive from a high bridge to-day, and was killed. His body was not recovered. Very few witnessed the leap, and those only happened to be on the bridge at the time.

ENGLAND.

THE BACCARAT CASE.

LONDON, June 24.—The court of appeals rendered a decision to-day in the Park Club baccarat case. The proprietor and members of the governing committee were fined £500, and the players £100. The court of appeals affirms judgment against the proprietors and the committee, but quashes that against the players.

ACCIDENT TO A STEAMSHIP.

LIVERPOOL, June 24.—As the steamer Pavonia, from Boston, was entering the dock to-day, her cylinder burst. The engineer was killed, and many others were injured.

FRANCE.

DE LESSEPS AND HIS DITCH.

PARIS, June 24.—De Lesseps declares that the rumors of the failure of the Panama excavation works are false. The latest advices he has from the works are to the effect that there were less obstacles to overcome than expected. The enterprise is making rapid progress, and the canal will be finished, at the latest, in 1888, when he hopes he and his children will be present. In regard to the Nicaragua canal De Lesseps said he favored the project, which in no wise interfered with the Panama canal, but would be a fresh water feeder to Panama, with regard to which he had no possible rivalry.

THE CHOLERA AT TOULON.

TOULON, June 24.—The first death here from cholera occurred June 4, but was kept secret.

No deaths from cholera have occurred at the marine hospital since Sunday.

MARSEILLES, June 24.—Travelers assert there were eighteen deaths from cholera at Toulon yesterday.

Fourteen fresh cases of cholera were reported yesterday. One patient died. The gravity of the symptoms is decreasing.

The "Herald" on the Mormon Recruits.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—The Herald says of the 800 Mormons that arrived yesterday: "A majority are Scandinavians, and the variety represented is interesting, if not attractive. The Hungarians who have established themselves in the Pennsylvania mines are breeding such discontent among other miners that outbreaks are frequent, and promise to become serious. The people are illiterate and degraded, and their women work at iron furnaces with the men. With these half-naked and wretched anarchists and socialists come among us, and scatter over the country poisoning the political and social atmosphere, the Mormon elders who are pursuing this insidious scheme are abroad to strengthen the already uncontrollable element in our midst."

Crop Prospects.

CHICAGO, June 24.—From reports received by the Farmers' Review as to the wheat prospects, there is a promise of full average crops, but not an enormous yield. The average yield promises to equal that of 1883, with increased acreage. Reports from Dakota are uniformly of a favorable character. Minnesota has a promise of 75 per cent. of an average crop. Wisconsin gives promise of a full average crop. The prospects in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois are only fair, and have shown no improvement since the last report. The yield in Michigan promises to fall under the yield of last year. Reports from Missouri are discouraging in tone. In Kansas the outlook is good, but not quite so promising as a month ago.

Minister Wallace Interviewed.

NEW YORK, June 24.—General Wallace, minister to Turkey, who arrived yesterday, said: "You come over to Constantinople, and I'll show you around. I'll let you look into the carriages and yards of Turkish ladies. Whoever says they won't look at or smile on an infidel is mistaken, and if you ever saw any girls like these girls, I shall be surprised. They are the most beautiful women in Europe, or any where else. Yes, I will except the American girl, if you want me to, but only through pure patriotism. When any man tells you how he has been in harems just you listen with interest, but don't you believe him."

Ocean Steamship Racing.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—The Tribune says: "Ocean steamship racing is apparently awakening as much interest among sporting men as old time contests on the Mississippi river. Fifty thousand dollars is said to have changed hands on the result of a late race from Queenstown to Sandy Hook, in which three steamships took part. Merchants are profiting by these fleet steamships, which enable them to take advantage of rapid turns in the market."

The Yellowstone Hotel to be Opened.

ST. PAUL, June 24.—The receiver for the Yellowstone National Park Improvement Company to-day completed arrangements by which the workmen on the hotel will be paid off next week, and the hotel opened by July 10. The workmen have been holding the hotel by force for two months past and refused to leave until paid. This ends the trouble, and tourists can now find accommodations in the park.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The feature of the market to-day was the auction sales of 3000 packages of brown, blue and other mixed blankets. Prices were low and return a loss to the manufacturers of surely 15 per cent. Other than above, there has been little doing and the market is wearing the dullness of the previous week.

New Orleans' Big Show.

NEW ORLEANS, June 24.—The legislature has passed a bill appropriating $100,000 for the world's exposition, and the governor has signed it. Work on the building is now progressing. Both horticultural hall and the main building are over two-thirds finished, and will be completed before the time specified.

Natural Gas Well Lighted.

PITTSBURG, June 24.—The new natural gas well at the Jefferson works was lighted last night. An immense crowd was present, and the event was celebrated by the firing of cannons and the playing of bands. The well will save 40,000 bushels of coal per month for the company alone.

Pinkerton Very Ill.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Allen Pinkerton, founder of Pinkerton's detective agency, is lying at the point of death from malarial fever.

Chicago Grain Market.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Wheat is stronger; 86⅞ for June, 86⅝ for July. Barley is dull and nominal at 60.

Wool.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Wool is quiet, and prices are nominal.

SPOILED SALMON.

Two Carloads of Columbia River Salmon Condemned in New York—Bad Packing.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—A carload of Columbia river salmon was condemned by the health authorities yesterday. Your correspondent called on Fish Commissioner Blackford this morning, to whom the fish were consigned, and asked him what the loss would be. "Not one cent to me," he said, "but the Northern Pacific railroad company are out over $1500. This was the second carload shipped to me from Oregon. The first load came through in splendid condition, the fish looking as if just caught from the water. This last car met with an accident. The refrigerator car was ditched at some point in Montana and the fish were all dumped out. They were hurriedly repacked, and when the car reached St. Paul my agent there examined the salmon, found them putrid and refused to receive them. The Northern Pacific then ordered the fish forwarded to New York to be sold on their account, but the officers here condemned them and so they are a total loss.

"Another car arrived last night containing 15,000 pounds of fish. About one-quarter of the load were found to be in merchantable condition. The rest were condemned by the health officers this morning. This load came from The Dalles and was consigned to Gammons & Co., who lose about $2000. Their freight charges amounted to just $1500. The refrigerator cars have receptacles on each end for ice. The fish are packed about 100 pounds to ninety-five pounds of ice. The car is refilled with ice at least four times on the way from the Columbia river to New York. The railroad company generally sends a man with each consignment to look after the fish. The average load of a refrigerator car is 15,000 pounds fish. For the last three days consignments of fish by express have been refused by the consignees, as salmon in this market has declined to 18 cents a pound, and freight charges by express are 11 cents a pound. Not much profit in that, is there?"

"What caused the fish consigned to Gammons & Co. to putrify?" asked the reporter.

"They took too long in packing them. I understood the car was delayed a whole week, so that much that had been packed had been out of the water three or four days. I have ordered another car of Columbia river salmon to meet the Fourth of July demand, and expect it here Saturday. Out of all this experimenting will certainly come regular business which will pay both the shipper and the consignee, and form a very important element of the food supply of New York. Recent experiments have developed the fact that fish taken at the mouth of the Columbia river and the vicinity of Astoria and Clifton are a hundred per cent better than those taken at The Dalles. Epicures all agree that the Clifton salmon possesses the finest flavor of any salmon the world over. This morning you can get good eating salmon right here for six cents a pound."

RAILROAD NOTES.

NORTHERN PACIFIC AND OREGON RAILROADS.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—[Special.]—The New York correspondent of the Press, who is well informed in transcontinental railroad matters, writes that most persons interested in the Northern Pacific and Oregon roads express themselves exceedingly pleased with the present condition of affairs. The late elections at Portland were just what they desired. The Northern Pacific will not be likely, it is now said, to lease the Oregon Railway and Navigation until after they have seen what the latter company can earn from connection with the Oregon Short Line. The published reports of the giving out of contracts for building parts of the Cascade branch of the Northern Pacific are merely on paper. That branch will probably not be begun for six or seven years. The transcontinental directors say their prospects are better than they have been since the close of last year. Henry Villard's chief purpose in visiting Germany was in connection with the Oregon and California railroad, for which money must be raised to complete the connection with California. German capitalists wish to see it completed, since the company can earn very little until that is done.

GENERAL PALMER AND THE RIO GRANDE.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—The Times says: "Complete severance duly followed the strained relations existing for the past two years between General Palmer, late president of the Denver and Rio Grande railway, and the directors of the company. Ogden cannot account for Palmer's present action only on the ground that the general has been feeling very sore about almost everything since he resigned the presidency last year. When asked if Palmer figured for large holdings of the company's securities, Ogden said Palmer had held no stock worth mentioning during the past two years or over, but he might hold some of the bonds of the road. Palmer is still president of the Denver and Rio Grande Western railway, which is leased for thirty years to the Denver and Rio Grande Company."

The Bulls Secure Control of the Market—Failure of the Firm of Morgan & Sons.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Governments, steadier. Railways, firm. There was a decided change in the temper of stock speculation to-day. Repeated efforts were made to depress the market, but there was no lack of orders, and after each decline higher prices ruled. Leading operators were large buyers of their various specialties. The causes for the advance in prices were the reduction in rates of sterling exchange, and favorable advices concerning crops. The fact that none of the sensational rumors current yesterday proved true also had much to do with the increased firmness of the share list. The market opened firm, and prices rose ½ to ¾ per cent. for the general list and 2 per cent. for Northwestern. Shortly afterwards Western Union was freely sold and fell off ½ to 50⅞. Enormous blocks of stock were thrown on the market, and there was an impression that the bulk of the transactions were "washes." The early improvement was lost, but the resistance offered by Western Union soon turned the market upward. In the advance which followed, Lackawanna rose 4½, St. Louis and Nashville 2¼, Northwestern 2¼, Union Pacific 2½, St. Paul 2, and the remainder of the list ¼ to 1½ per cent.

About 11 the failure of M. Morgan & Sons was announced, and a general selling movement set in. Lackawanna dropped 3⅞, Northwestern 2⅝, Missouri Pacific 2¼, St. Paul 1⅞, Western Union 1½, and the remainder of the active list ¾ to 1½ per cent. Subsequently it was ascertained that the firm were not members of the stock exchange, and prices rose ⅜ to 1⅛ per cent. At intervals during the afternoon unsuccessful attempts to break Western Union led to several reactions. Late in the day the market was active and buoyant, and many stocks sold at the highest point. The market closed strong. Cash stock was worth ⅝@1 per cent. more than regular, and leading shares commanded a premium for use. Compared with last night's closing prices are 1⅛@4½ points higher.

MONEY, BONDS AND STOCKS.

FAILURE OF THE FIRM OF MORGAN & SONS.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Matthew Morgan & Sons, bankers, have suspended. The announcement of the failure caused a depression in the stock market, but prices recovered and became steadier. The firm was an old one.

Morgan & Sons were not members of the stock exchange. They are known as merchant bankers, but dealt in securities on the list.

The suspension of Morgan Sons, is attributed to the shrinkage in values of railroad bonds, principally Denver and Rio Grande, of which they were large holders at high prices. The liabilities are mainly due on the produce exchange, but they have liabilities on the stock exchange. The members of the firm are large real estate owners, and it is believed the inability to realize on real estate was the immediate cause of the suspension.

The house of Morgan & Sons has been in business in this city for thirty-five years. They came originally from New Orleans, and have always been correspondents of several London houses. They rated $1,000,000. The firm is identified with the Denver and Rio Grande and the C. C. and I. C. Railway Companies. Henry Morgan was formerly a director in the Denver and Rio Grande.

The assignment was made to protect all the creditors equally. The correspondents of the firm are the Union and City banks in London, and A. and M. Meine Marchard Andre and Hattenger & Co. in Paris. The social conditions of the members of the firm are very high, the daughter of Edward Morgan being the wife of August Belmont, Jr.; and Henry Morgan being connected with the family of Mr. Brown, of Brown Bros. & Co., by marriage.

A FEVERISH DAY.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—Tribune: Wall street has been flooded for two days with wild rumors, which have not yet been confirmed. The feverish condition of the stock market has been shown by the readiness with which all suggestions of disaster have been received as truths. The financial integrity of some of the most prominent firms and persons in Wall street has been attacked without excuse. When rumors have become pointed they have been denied promptly, but the dangerous rumors have been those which could not be contradicted simply because they were vague and impersonal. The stock market has felt the power of these anonymous stories. As soon as the fears of brokers and speculators had been somewhat allayed, they were seen to be without any substantial foundation, the mere fragments of a dream. The stock market yesterday was not unusually active, but in early dealings it was somewhat unsettled. Gradually prices improved, and in the last hour of business they advanced with great confidence.

The unexpected failure of the old and respected house had no perceptible effect on the market, because still greater disasters had been predicted. Matthew Morgan & Sons have never had a representative in the stock exchange, although their failure was caused, it is understood, by large losses in stocks and bonds. There were no securities to be sold for their account at the stock exchange, however, and the announcement of the failure caused no excitement. The course of the market was steadily upward as a rule, the highest prices being recorded at the close or just before it.

SOME CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—Among the many rumors recently circulated was one that Vanderbilt was a large seller of stocks, and that the decline on Monday in his particular stocks is due to his sales. The following extracts are made from correspondence between Cyrus W. Field and Vanderbilt: Field wrote to Vanderbilt June 23 thus:

"A prominent bear broker is reporting that you are working with the bears, and have been selling a large amount of your stocks since your return from Europe. This I have denied, and said that you sold me you had not sold a share since your arrival here."

Vanderbilt replied: "Your note received. I am glad you sent it, as it gives me an opportunity to deny any rumors concerning me. I will give $10,000 for each share of stock of any kind with which I am connected as director that I have sold within the last six weeks. I think I can safely say eight months, but you may put it as above, just as I will stand by it. These lies only show to what people will resort."

JAY GOULD INTERVIEWED.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—Jay Gould was asked about some of the many rumors which had been circulated. He replied: "My holdings have been well concentrated. I have only good dividend paying stocks, and those I propose to hold. I happen to know that the Missouri Pacific, for instance, is earning its dividend steadily, and as long as it does that I am satisfied to keep stocks. I am perfectly sure Western Union is earning her dividends. I think that the people are convinced of these facts, too, because the stockholders are steadily increasing in number; but it is of little consequence what the price of stocks may be when the holders are sure that the property is earning a good income. I know what these two companies are earning, and am contented to keep my stocks. Money is abundant on good dividend paying securities. I was offered a large block of money to-day, foreign money, but I had no use for it, and was obliged to refuse it. I am inclined to think we shall be importing gold soon, for money in England is very cheap, and will seek investment in good securities here."

WOERISHOFFER INTERVIEWED.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Woerishoeffer, prominently identified with the bear interest, was interviewed to-day regarding the situation in Wall street, and said: "I regard the failure of Morgan & Sons as very serious. I do not think it will have great effect on the stock market; it is more of a commercial disaster. I don't anticipate more failures at the present, though."

Regarding Gould's position he said: "Gould can't fail. He has lost a great deal of money, but he has plenty left. Anything may happen; Gould may go under; this house may tumble down, but I am taking my chances on it, and I don't intend to move." The market, Woerishoeffer said, looked bad, and he acknowledged that he felt blue.

A MERCHANT KILLS HIMSELF.

NEW YORK, June 24.—J. W. Burnham, of Hotchkiss, Burnham & Co., shot himself dead this morning, in consequence of depression over recent failures.

Joseph W. Burnham, who this morning committed suicide in Yonkers by shooting, was junior member of the firm of Hotchkiss, Burnham & Co., who suspended payment just before the stock exchange closed, the same day the Metropolitan bank closed its doors. Burnham was an old telegraph operator, and at the beginning of the recent strike of operators came to the assistance of the Western Union. He took off his coat and sat down at an instrument during three nights.

APPEARANCE OF CHOLERA.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Cholera is said to have broken out at Yang-Tsun, China, a town between Tien-Tsin and Peking.

ORANGEMEN WILL ALL ATTEND.

ARMAGH, June 24.—Orangemen here have resolved that the Orangemen of the whole county will attend the anniversary meeting at Newry July 12.

The Only One of his Kind.

Louisville Times.

"Baxter is the only politician I ever knew who was never known to treat," said a gentleman the other day. "He didn't believe in squandering his money that way. I got even with him once. Baxter one day drove up to the Galt house to meet Governor Blackburn and some other distinguished gentlemen. When we got there Baxter gave me a dollar and told me to get four cigars. I went in and bought four for the dollar. He handed them around, and after a while we drove away. For a long time John kept twirling his cigar and waited for me to say something about the change. At last he grew impatient, and said: 'How much did the cigars cost?' 'I got four for a dollar. You don't think I'd would offer the governor of Kentucky anything less than a twenty-five cent cigar?' I answered, with an injured look. 'The governor be d—d,' growled Baxter, 'He is no better than me, and a five-cent cigar suits me. Don't be so free with my money the next time, if it's old Grant himself.'"

THE WORLD OF POLITICS.

Logan Formally Notified of His Nomination at Chicago.

PROCEEDINGS OF DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

Butler Wire-Pulling at Washington—Indiana Democrats will Instruct for McDonald—Meeting of Independents—Etc.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Chairman Henderson, and members of the committee charged by the national republican convention with the duty of formally notifying the candidates for president and vice president of their nomination, met at noon to-day and proceeded to the residence of General Logan, and were ushered into the parlor. The general stood in the middle of the room with Mrs. Logan on his right hand, and was introduced to the members of the committee by the chairman. When this ceremony was performed, the committee arranged themselves in a circle around the room to hear the address. Chairman Henderson then read a formal notification of the nomination of Senator Logan as candidate for vice president, to which the general replied:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee: I receive your visit with pleasure, and accept with gratitude the sentiments you have so generously expressed in the discharge of the duty with which you have been entrusted by the national convention, intending to address you a formal communication shortly. In accordance with recognized usage, it would be out of place to detain you at this time with remarks which properly belong to the official utterances of a letter of acceptance. I may be permitted to say, however, that though I did not seek the nomination of vice president, I accept it as reposed in me by the republican party, to the advancement of whose broad policy on all questions connected with the progress of our government and our people I have dedicated my best energies; and with this acceptance I may properly signify my approval of the platform of principles adopted by the convention. I am doubly sensible of the honor conferred upon me by my friends in so unanimously tendering this nomination, and I sincerely thank them for this tribute. I am not unmindful of the great responsibility connected with the office, and if elected I shall enter upon the performance of its duties with a firm conviction that he who has such strenuous support of his party friends as circumstances connected with my nomination, and your own words, Mr. Chairman, indicate, will consequently such wealth of counsel to draw upon, cannot fail in the proper discharge of duties committed to him. I tender you my thanks, Mr. Chairman, for the kind expression you have made, and I offer you and your fellow committeemen my most cordial greetings.

When General Logan had concluded, the chairman stepped forward and shook hands with him, as did the other members of the committee. Mrs. Logan merely thanked General Henderson for the sentiments conveyed in his address.

The members of the committee then took their leave, with the exception of a few who were engaged in conversation with Logan and his wife.

State Conventions.

MISSOURI DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—The state democratic convention for the election of delegates at large to the national convention at Chicago, and for naming a list of delegates, met this morning. The attendance was very large.

It was nearly 3 o'clock when the convention reassembled. The report of the committee on credentials and permanent organization was received, and Charles E. Peers of Warrenton was made permanent chairman, and Nicholas Bell of St. Louis secretary, with several assistants. John O'Day of Springfield and Dr. Morrison Mumford of Kansas City were then nominated for delegate at large, when, shortly after 4 o'clock, the convention adjourned till 9 to-morrow. Interviews with district delegates disclosed the fact that if Tilden cannot be had, the delegation will be practically solid for Cleveland; not more than three of them being for Bayard. Their action will depend largely, however, upon the position and preference of the delegates from New York.

The platform formed by the committee on resolutions cannot be obtained to-night, and will not be submitted to the convention until the election of delegates at large to-morrow. It may be said, however, that it is brief, and consists chiefly of the reaffirmation of the national and state platform of the party adopted in 1876 and 1880, and its recommendations regarding the tariff are in harmony with the views of the most advanced revenue reformers.

CALIFORNIA REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—[Special.]—The republican state central committee has called a state convention to meet at Sacramento on the 23d of next month to nominate presidential electors. The democrats in their late convention at Stockton took time by the forelock and nominated electors before it was known for whom they will have to vote. San Francisco is to have 96 out of the 400 delegates of which the Sacramento convention is to be composed. The convention will nominate two electors at large, and dividing itself into six parts, one elector for each congressional district. Its nominations for seats in congress will be made in the same way.

INDIANA DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 24.—The democratic state nominating convention will be held here to-morrow. The platform will contain resolutions instructing the delegates to cast the vote of the state for McDonald, as its candidate for the nomination for president. District delegates held a meeting this evening, at which committees of the convention and delegates and alternates to Chicago were selected.

OHIO DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—The delegates are all in for the democratic state convention, which convenes at 10 A. M. to-morrow. District delegates held meetings this evening, at which committees of the convention and delegates and alternates to Chicago were elected.

Political Points.

BUTLER LOG ROLLING IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—[Special.]—A prominent republican who was present at the Chicago convention, said to-day that he would be more afraid of the nomination of Butler than of any candidate mentioned on the democratic side. He reasoned that Butler would poll as well as any other candidate that might be nominated the regular democratic vote. In addition to this, he said Butler would receive the support of the greenbackers, laboring men and all factions that are opposed to the two great parties, except a handful of independent kickers whose influence and votes never amounted to anything in determining a presidential contest.

General Butler has been in the city for the past few days, and it has been observed that he has found sufficient respite each day from his legal employment to visit the capitol and talk over the political situation with prominent democrats in the senate and house.

SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS WILL NOT EXPRESS PREFERENCES.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—[Special.]—Talk among southern senators and representatives indicates that the settlement of a choice of candidates at Chicago next month will be practically left to the delegations from New Jersey and Indiana. Southern men, while having personal preferences, are willing to yield them to the judgment of representatives of states which are essential to democratic success. The news from New York that Cleveland is testing his strength in the delegation and that the chances are against his carrying the majority of the members causes great annoyance to his friends in Washington. John Kelly is liberally endowed with curses and Tammany is accused of willingness to sell out the party. It is reported here that Dorsheimer is working for the overthrow of Cleveland, and that the ex-lieutenant governor does not deny the report.

HENDRICKS' CANDIDACY FOR GOVERNOR.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—[Special.]—The talk about the use of Hendricks' name in connection with the nomination for governor of Indiana is ridiculed by prominent democrats in congress. They say that Hendricks could not get the nomination if he attempted, and that Isaac P. Gray, who is more popular in the state than either Hendricks or McDonald, will certainly get the nomination. Gray has the reputation of being a hard fighter and is fertile in resources and very popular with the people of the state. He does not stand well with McDonald because to him is ascribed the credit of having obtained the democratic complimentary vote which was intended to have been cast for McDonald at the time of Harrison's election to the senate.

INDEPENDENT COMMITTEE MEETING.

NEW YORK, June 24.—At a meeting of the independent republican committee to-day, Carl Schurz presiding, an executive committee was appointed, consisting of Carl Schurz, Horace E. Deming and R. A. Doley, to be increased by two other members, whose duty it shall be to prepare immediately a document to be addressed to republican voters throughout the country, setting forth reasons why they should not vote for Blaine and Logan. A circular previously issued has been widely distributed.

THE REPUBLICAN CHAIRMANSHIP.

PITTSBURG, June 24.—It is said that B. F. Jones, iron manufacturer of this city, has been selected for the position of chairman of the republican national committee, and that the matter will be settled at a meeting of the committee at New York on Thursday. Mr. Jones, when spoken to, admitted that the subject had been broached to him, and said he had suggested that the possibility of his acceptance of the position would depend on the fulfillment of certain conditions.

THE CALIFORNIA DELEGATION.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—At a meeting this afternoon of the California delegates to the national democratic convention, Senator Dennis Spencer of Napa was unanimously elected chairman. J. J. Driscoll, secretary to Mr. Buckley, was suggested as secretary, but as it was maintained that the secretary should be a member of the delegation, election was deferred. The delegation resolved to go east next Saturday afternoon.

AN EMPHATIC DENIAL.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—Relative to the World's dispatch sent yesterday, that the Tammany leaders had called a conference regarding the presidential candidate, General Spinola, the best authority says: "There is not a word of truth in it. I am in a position to know, and say that no such meeting has been held, will be held, or is in contemplation."

WILL RATIFY.

BOSTON, June 24.—The republican state convention has voted to hold a ratification meeting, as soon as Senator Hoar and Representative Long could make arrangements to be present.

THE COUNTY DELEGATION.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The county democracy delegation will leave for the national convention July 4 in a special train, over the West Shore road.

ONE FOR BAYARD.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 24.—Paul T. Faison and W. W. Fuller are delegates from the fourth district to Chicago. Faison is for Bayard, but Fuller is doubtful.

THE DEMOCRATS BEFUDDLED.

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—It is still pretty hard to divine what the New York democrats are driving at. Some say Butler, others Bayard, and others again that Tilden is to be a candidate. Certainly so far as New York is concerned, Cleveland and Flower are utterly out of the race. Kelly's movements are watched with the greatest interest and everybody, democrats as well, seem befuddled as to the outcome.

SALEM NOTES.

SALEM, June 24.

A. L. Johnson of Medford has been appointed notary public for Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn O. Holman of Baker City are visiting in the family of Hon. B. F. Bonham of Salem.

A large number of Albany citizens contemplate spending the Fourth in Salem in attendance at the printers' picnic.

The Uncle Tom's Cabin troupe are announced to appear at Reed's opera house on Friday and Saturday evenings of the present week.

The ladies of the Congregational church will entertain their friends on Friday evening at the home-like residence of Mrs. I. N. Gilbert.

Jay Smith and R. D. Patton, two well known athletes of this city, ran a 100-yard foot race a few days since for coin, which was won by the former.

Harvey F. Ogle will to-day commence a canvass of the city for the purpose of seeing if sufficient subscribers can be secured to insure us a lecture by John B. Gough.

George Humphrey, sheriff of Linn county, came down this morning, having in charge one Thos. Bamford, an insane patient, who was turned over to the asylum authorities.

The Presbyterians have abandoned the project of purchasing the Breyman house for use as a parsonage, and it will be moved on the lot in the southeast corner of Church and Chemeketa streets.

The condition of W. T. Gray, who fell from a scaffold on Saturday last, shows continued improvement, and his friends will be pleased to learn that he will be confined to his room for but a comparatively short time.

Tiger Engine Company No. 2 and Salem Engine Company No. 3 have unanimously agreed to participate in the Fourth of July parade, and the remaining two companies will no doubt pursue the same course, thus adding greatly to the interest of the occasion.

Some of the county clerks have been very slow in sending the election returns to the secretary of state, which fact has and does still delay the official canvass. They will probably be received this week however, and no delay will follow in completing the canvass a ready commenced.

Lewis Byrns, one of our best citizens, received a severe stroke of paralysis on Sunday evening last. It being the second attack, great anxiety is manifested over its probable result, although his condition at present shows a slight improvement, and a large circle of friends are hoping for his ultimate recovery.

The printers of this city have, with their characteristic generosity, granted to the ladies of the Episcopal church the exclusive privilege of selling refreshments on the grounds in Marion Square at the forth coming picnic, to be held on the Fourth of July. The proceeds of such sales will be used in the erection of their new rectory on Church street, and they are making extensive arrangements for the entertainment of their friends.

John P. Parson, formerly a student in the Willamette university, was drowned while fishing near the mouth of the Columbia on the 18th inst. He left Salem but a few days before commencement week, for the purpose of fishing at Astoria to improve his somewhat shattered health and earning means to pursue his studies for another year. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him, and his unexpected death will be mourned by a host of friends and acquaintances.

The friends of education in Salem are making extensive arrangements for the proper reception of all who may attend the State Teachers' Association, which meets in this city on Monday next, and will continue in session for four days, closing Thursday, July 3, 1884. The sessions will be held in the legislative hall of the capitol building. A very extensive and interesting programme has been prepared, and as greatly reduced rates have been secured over the various lines of travel, a large attendance is assured.

The friends of woman suffrage held an enthusiastic meeting at Reed's opera house last Friday evening. Mrs. A. S. Duniway, the champion of the cause in Oregon, being present, and delivering one of her characteristic addresses, in which no indications of discouragement over the recent defeat of the amendment were visible. In fact, to use a homely expression, she has spit on her hands for a new hold, and will go before the next legislature with an immense petition asking that honorable body to resubmit the amendment and bring it before the people at a special election, unhampered by questions of local issue and party prejudices.

The Firemen's Association of Oregon will meet at Albany the third Wednesday in August, and companies that are not already members are urged to forward their applications for membership without delay to Frank E. Hodgkin of Salem, the secretary of the association. Annual dues are also collectable at the present time. Members of volunteer departments should take an active interest in this organization, as there is much in it that tends to improve the efficiency of departments, and individual firemen and all should aid it by every means in their power. The Albany department are taking an active interest in the annual state tournament which will be held at the same time, and some liberal prizes are promised, over the possession of which some lively and exciting contests are anticipated. The Albany firemen never do things by halves, and all who may attend will be accorded a hearty welcome.

The Bank Failures at Washington Worse than Anticipated.

Washington Special to Chicago Tribune.

The local bank failures here are worse than had been anticipated. The filing of a bill for an injunction against the private banking house of Squires & Co. has resulted in the disclosure of some peculiar facts. When the writ was served yesterday a meeting of creditors was being held at the bank, and Judge Edmunds, a district commissioner, was endeavoring to explain to the creditors that a small safe in the office was his private property, which he had stored there because he had not room for it at his house. This circumstance, together with many others, has given rise to the rumor that Judge Edmunds is a partner in this enterprise. The cashier is reported to have said that the small safe contains army and navy vouchers. Judge Edmunds denies that he has any connection with the firm. Squires' business consisted almost exclusively in loaning money to clerks and army and navy officers at excessive rates of interest.

Some extraordinary disclosures are being made as to the Middleton failure. The Evening Star has the following:

One of the latest developments of the way in which their customers were plundered is shown in the case of James H. McKenney, clerk of the supreme court of the United States. Mr. McKenney has been the close friend from boyhood of D. W. Middleton, Jr., and succeeded Mr. Middleton, Sr., as clerk of the court, and his confidence was therefore unbounded in Middleton, Jr. His deposits in securities and money with the firm amounted to the large sum of $61,000, every dollar of which is lost. They not only took his money in the general default, but cut open the envelopes in which he had placed his securities, such as bonds and stocks, for safe keeping, and sold them. Mr. McKenney has nothing but the plundered envelopes to show for the savings of a lifetime, though part of this amount belonged to the court. In another instance $10,000 in trust bonds have disappeared in the whirlpool. There is still another aggravated case. They had a power of attorney from a man of means absent from the city to attend to his business here, and had the key to his safe. On hearing of their failure this gentleman hurried to the city to look after his own securities. He found that every one had been sold. His safe was not in the Middleton bank. General Frank Morey, of Louisiana, one of the committee of creditors, loses about $19,000.

Cremation of a Great Indian.

Calcutta Englishman.

At about 10:30 A. M., Babu Keshub Chunder Sen expired at his residence at Lily cottage, and immediately after the remains were laid out on a new sandal wood bedstead, which was covered with marigolds, jessamine and roses. The corpse was dressed in a white silk dhoti, and at intervals some of the disciples of the Brahmo leader sprinkled rosewater on it, and placed garlands of flowers all over. At noon the bier was removed to the new chapel, adjoining Little cottage, which was being erected for the late Babu Keshub Chunder Sen's private devotions, and at 2:30 P. M. a photographer came and photographed the remains, which were then lying an object of touching regard to hundreds of the Brahmo leader's disciples, friends and admirers. Shortly after this the male mourners and visitors were requested to leave the chapel to allow of the entrance of a number of the female relatives and followers of the deceased, who then entered and gave vent to their feelings of grief and sorrow at the death of their beloved leader. The bier, with the remains, was then carried in procession along the roads from the chapel to the Nimtollah Ghaut, followed by thousands and thousands of natives of all castes and creeds, and by a very numerous gathering of leading European gentlemen at Calcutta. At Nimtollah Ghaut the body was, with Brahmo rites, placed on the funeral pyre, which was composed entirely of sandal wood. After cremation the ashes were collected and placed in an urn, which will be deposited in the deceased minister's private chapel. The procession was headed by a disciple, who bore in his hands a banner bearing on it these words: "New Dispensation." As the procession reached the old Brahmo Mandir in Colootollah, the body was put down and a hymn chanted—"Glory be to the Man who Has got a Pure Heart"—and the same ceremony was repeated when the procession passed the Baidyaram Samaj Mandir, the chant being repeated at intervals till the burning ghaut was reached.

Mosquitoes Under the Microscope.

London Sportsman.

We have long held the opinion that the mosquito is an unmitigated scoundrel, who could give odds to a lively flea, six stones and a beating over a long course, but we are now convinced. A gentleman has examined Mr. Mosquito under a microscope, and his description is, to say the least, startling. It appears that in the "bill" of the little beast are no fewer than five distinct surgical instruments. These are described as a lance, two meat saws, a suction pump, and a small Corliss steam engine. It appears that when a "skeeter" settles down to his work upon a nice tender portion of its human victim, the lance is first pushed into the flesh, then the two saws, placed back to back, commence to work up and down to enlarge the hole, then the pump is inserted, and the victim's blood is siphoned up to the reservoirs carried behind, and finally, to complete the cruelty of the performance, the wretch drops a quantity of poison into the wound to keep it irritated. When the diminutive fiend takes a fly ride just to digest your gore, and makes tracks for a fresh victim, and if the first one has been of unusually good quality, he returns to the same happy hunting ground. The mosquito's marvelous accuracy, combined with its portable operating chest, makes him at once a terror and a pest. Our English ancestors were saved its fascinating and

A School Book Scandal.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—[Special.]—A contest is going on in the school board over the matter of furnishing text books, and it is openly charged that certain directors have been "influenced" to aid the scheme of a publishing house, which has applied for a four years' contract to supply all the books required. The rates proposed are something less than the usual retail prices, but still far above what similar books could be procured for in the open wholesale market. The matter has become an official stink, and the directors who voted to make the contract find their position hard to explain.

A Dull Fourth Anticipated.

The Flood Near Stockton.

STOCKTON, June 24.—The break in the Elk Ridge levee, Union island, is now forty feet wide, and efforts to stop the flow of water has been abandoned. The crop of 7000 acres will be destroyed. The crop belongs to renters. About 400 men are employed on the levee, separating the flooded district from Kidd ranch, the crop on which is owned by Williams & Bixler. This part of the island will probably be saved from inundation. News reached the city today that the efforts to close the breach in the levee on the lower division of Roberts' island had been abandoned. Thirty-two hundred bags of sand thrown into the crevasse produced no visible effect in closing the breach. There is some high land on the lower division that will be saved from overflow.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Ferryman Drowned.

RIPARIA, W. T., June 26.—[Special correspondence.]—About 5 o'clock this evening a heavy wind and sand storm visited this place. No damage was done except to the ferryboat, which was in midstream when the storm struck her. She swung around, head up stream, and the lower block gave way, throwing the ferryman, J. Bradford, several feet into the river. He was carried under the boat and came up about fifty feet astern, but on account of the swift current and heavy sea was unable to regain the boat. The men on the boat could do nothing to assist him, and he drifted down several hundred feet, vainly striving to reach the shore. Two men started out in a small boat to his assistance, but he sank before they could reach him. His body has not been recovered. Although Mr. Bradford had been here but a few months, he had gained the respect and good will of all. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge at Dayton, W. T.

The Locomotive of To-day.

Exchange.

The locomotive of to-day is a giant by the side of the production of 1851. The New York Central express engine is a very Anak. Its weight is 84,000 pounds, or nearly two and a half times heavier than its above mentioned prototype. The cylinders are eighteen inches by twenty-four. The average man's head is far below the top of the driving wheels, which are seventy-five inches in diameter. In 1854 a New York express passenger locomotive traveled 25,000 miles in a year; last year the average mileage per engine stood between 70,000 and 80,000 miles. A locomotive for express passenger service costs, taking the experience of the past few years, from $3590 to $10,000 to build. In comparing the locomotives of to-day and a quarter of a century ago, you will notice that while the weight of the whole machine has increased greatly, certain of the dimensions have not altered much. This is because we are limited in various ways in constructing a locomotive. We cannot make the body over a certain width, because of the gauge of the track; not over a certain height, because we must keep the center of gravity at about the same position; not over a certain length, because of the wheel centers. So the locomotive must always remain nearly the same in form. It is to increased capacity of boilers that we must look for increase of power. At present an express locomotive boiler is of eighty horse power, that is, if it were in a stationary engine that would be its capacity. But when the locomotive is drawing a train of cars at five miles an hour, the boiler supplies the strength of 375 horses, and at forty-five miles an hour the power expended is equal to that of from 700 to 800 horses. That's a curious fact, isn't it?

Salt in Food.

Experiments for the purpose of discovering the effects of salt and other condiments when used in cooking have been made by Dr. Hasson. It is shown, among other things, that in cooking butcher's meat only an ounce of salt should be used with from six to twelve ounces of meat; if more is employed, it will either modify the structure of a portion of the muscular fibre so as to render it more resistant to the action of the gastric juice, or it will itself check and retard the peptic fermentation, the very groundwork of digestion. It follows that salted and smoked meats are more indigestible than fresh. Vinegar, it appears, may be used with good effect, provided it is not in a quantity to irritate the stomach, and it is a pure dilution of acetic acid, freed from sulphuric or hydrochloric acids.

CUTICURA REMEDIES

THE GREAT SKIN CURES

A Positive Cure for Every Form of Skin and Blood Disease from Pimples to Scrofula.

THOUSANDS OF LETTERS in our possession repeat this story: I have been a terrible sufferer for years with Blood and Skin Humors; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars and got no real relief until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, the Great Skin Cures and Skin Beautifiers, externally, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

ALMOST INCREDIBLE.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath, says,—In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them and was perfectly cured. Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

STILL MORE SO.

Will McDonald, 2542 Dearborn Street, Chicago, gratefully acknowledges a cure of Eczema, or Salt Rheum, on head, neck, face, arms and legs, for seventeen years; not able to move, except on hands and knees, for one year; not able to help himself for eight years; tried hundreds of remedies; doctors pronounced his case hopeless, permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

MORE WONDERFUL YET.

H. E. Carpenter, Henderson, N. Y., cured of Psoriasis or Leprosy of twenty years' standing, by CUTICURA REMEDIES. The most wonderful cure on record. A dustpanful of scales fell from him daily. Physicians and his friends thought he must die. Cure sworn to before a justice of the peace and Henderson's most prominent citizens.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 25, 1884.

THE TRUTH OF THE MATTER.

As we find out more and more concerning the attitude of the press toward the candidates of the republican party, we find that the newspaper support will not materially differ from that of former years. The papers which have been gradually drifting away from any fixed political standing, like the New York Times and the New York Evening Post, have favored the impression that there is a general revolt of republican newspapers. In the list published, gloated over and republished by the enemies of Mr. Blaine, the New York Commercial Advertiser, the staunch old republican paper that Hugh Hastings used in his battles for the party while he lived, was put prominently forward—so prominently, indeed, that it has been found necessary to set it right, in the face of so much adverse publicity, by a general telegraphic dispatch which would reach all parts of the country. The people were not at all surprised at the course and the conduct of the Times. It was such a trifling change for it to turn over to the democrats, that they thought little of it, but the readers of the Commercial Advertiser would never for a week stay with it if it should prove such an apostate as rumor made it out to be; and its reputation was so wide that it found it necessary to do more than satisfy its readers. It had to let the country know that it is working for its party. This is the only real party paper in New York that was put in the list of those that would oppose the election of Mr. Blaine, and now we find this working for his election. The opposition will probably fade in other spots. Certainly not much reliance can be placed in that published list of opposing papers. Another that was in the list, the Worcester, Mass., Spy is the most influential republican paper in Massachusetts outside of Boston. This paper, too, has been misrepresented. It is republican, as always, and working for the ticket. It has this to say of the little Boston movement:

> The state and district conventions which chose delegates and instructed them for Blaine were composed of delegates freely elected and truly representing their republican constituents. Their regard for Mr. Blaine does not imply indifference to the faults of which he has been accused; it does imply disbelief of the accusations. It is a reasonable and honorable sentiment. He has qualities which justify it, and besides what he is in itself, he represents to them both the inspiration and the result of strenuous political struggles. Massachusetts republicans cannot ignore these facts.

These discoveries remind us that it is always best to get information from a friend rather than an enemy. Friends may flatter unduly sometimes, but they will not tell malicious lies to get their friends into trouble. It is well, of course, to understand all sides of every question, but it is not well to be led by a sort of Jack-o'-lantern guide into eternally walking in sloughs of doubt around and around a question without ever finding, or getting a clue to find a solid place to stand. The bad should be known to be avoided, and the good that it may be adopted; but when it comes to going into an independent business that continually preaches one thing as very bad and another as worse, it is clearly better to have no guide at all. If the ipse dixit of a good editor here and another there, distributed about the country had been all that was necessary to make a president, poor old Greeley would have been elected. But the several good editors, with their influential papers, managed to advise an unaccountably strange, unnatural and illogical course, and so, as it turned out, the readers had better sense than these editors, and proceeded to do as they pleased, which was far better than they had been advised to do. The press has great influence, but when a newspaper, pretending to be republican, advises a course that would turn the country over to the democrats, the readers will do precisely as they did in the instance above alluded to—go with their party and leave the editors to advise those few of his own stripe, whose numbers do not interfere with the result. To turn a reader's course, an editor must reasonably offer something better than abuse of that reader's favorite candidate, and must show some way to achieve a success for the benefit of the country. It will not do for them to sulk and say: "Let us beat Blaine and punish his friends by giving the country to the democrats." Such talk will not turn voters, and this is what the independent talk all amounts to.

Let the enemies of the republican party go on and abuse it; but do not be misled, at this distance, into the belief that the republicans themselves or their papers are doing it to any great extent, for they are not.

Blaine and Logan are republicans, representative American statesmen, standing upon a platform as truly republican as any man of the party can wish—one suited to all sections of the country, and, this being the case, we see no occasion for going to the democrats or independents to find out how our candidates are getting along, or what their chances of success are; we see no occasion for even believing what they say on the subject when we read it, and we certainly do not believe there is one-tenth of the opposition in the east, either by editors or other men of influence, that has been represented by the few papers whose editors are working for the overthrow of the party.

HOW TALENT IS ENGAGED.

Chauncey M. Depew of New York is not a "theorist" or "idealogist" or political Pharisee or professional "reformer," but a practical politician who has retained his patriotic instincts and his love for our form of government. It is very significant of the perils which threaten us when such a man is impelled to say that "there is not at this hour holding office in public life a single recognized and undisputed leader of a great party or the progenitor of accepted ideas. The Congressional Record is a morass of crudity and words whose boundless area and bottomless depths none have courage to explore. The Washingtons, Adamses and Jays of the first period; the Hamiltons, Jeffersons and Madisons of the second period, the Websters, Clays and Calhouns of the third period, and the Sewards, Sumners and Lincolns of the fourth period, have no successors of equal power or influence. The debates of to-day are unread, but the utterances of those statesmen were read by millions. Has the talent which made these men eminent died out? Oh, no. It is practicing law, editing newspapers, managing manufactories, building railroads and directing commerce and transportation." This is because elections to public office are controlled by manipulators or by money which high minded men scorn to use. Hence, as Mr. Depew says, "the halls of congress are gradually filling up with wealthy men and professional placemen. By combination and cunning mediocrity occupies positions it cannot fill, and the machine runs for the suppression of dangerous ability and the division of all the dividends of honor and power among its directors."

The divorce of the best brains and most enlightened conscience of the country from its politics has gone on about as long as it can without danger of a much more virulent, violent, aggressive and eruptive display of the vicious politics that have corrupted both parties. The Mail and Express appeals to men of all parties and sections, and all religions, to know what they are going to do about it. But the appeal is not made at an opportune time. It is safe to say that nothing will be done about it until after the presidential election, though many are pondering these things in their hearts.

The passage of the Fitz John Porter bill yesterday through the house of representatives, with the senate amendment concurred closes all consideration of this important personal question except that to be given to it by the president, to whom the bill goes for signature. As the bill stands, Porter is, by its enactment, purged of all the charges which were made against him before the original courtmartial which tried and convicted him. It restores him to his rank of colonel in the regular army, and relieves his character of the stigma which has attached to it during twenty-one years of now confessedly unmerited punishment. It simply withholds from him unearned back pay for those years. If the president signs the bill, it is still possible for him to delay Porter's restoration to the army by declining to appoint him.

PENSION BILLS.

Since the adoption of their pension plank, the republicans in congress have been trying to make campaign capital by identifying themselves with some large measure in aid of the Union soldiers and sailors of the late war. They propose to extend the famous arrears of pensions bill according to the promise in the platform; so that claims under it may be filed up to next January, and also giving claimants their arrears back to the time the disability occurred instead of as now, limiting it to the time the application was filed. This is Senator Ingalls' plan, growing out of one of the promises made by him in his campaign for re-election. In answer to a question as to the probable expenditure under this extension, the commissioner of pensions says that already 138,069 claims were filed, and he estimated that at least 150,000 more are ready, when it is known that the restrictions have been removed. To this total, 223,987 would be invalid claims, a majority, after allowing 25 per cent. for rejections, $1100 each, or a total of $184,789,000. Widows' claims would number 64,083, of which 20 per cent. would probably be rejected. At $1200 each these amount to $61,519,200, making a total probable expenditure under this section alone of $246,308,200. This does not include the amount necessary to pay the arrears from the alleged disability to the time of filing the claim. Commissioner Dudley has not had time to compute this, but he says it will be an immense sum. A skilled pension official, however, estimates that it will not be less than $150,000,000, as the majority of pensioners did not make up their cases until some time after the war, and every disability must have been incurred during that time.

It is also proposed by the republican caucus to pass the Cullom bill, which provides that every soldier who served three months in the civil war, "who is or shall become disabled from any cause not the result of his own gross carelessness, disreputable conduct or vicious habits," shall be pensioned. This, in effect, gives all soldiers who get hurt in any way, or may do so, the same consideration that is given those who were injured in the war. Another bill, introduced some time since by Mr. Cook proposes to increase the full disability pension to $74 per month or $888. Another, by Mr. Stockslager, proposes to pay certain soldiers and sailors $100 per month in lieu of all pensions now received by them, thus providing for them an income of $1200 a year. Mr. Stockslager also has a bill to pension the surviving officers and enlisted and drafted men of the Tippecanoe campaign of 1811, thus going back seventy-three years in the search for possible pensioners. In addition to these general bills a large number of special bills have been passed increasing pensions to certain persons. If these measures should become laws there will be no need of a reduction of tariff or internal revenue taxes. But it is not expected that they will all be passed. The senators know that the house will not allow them to go through, and thus the requirements of the platform will be met without bankrupting the treasury.

BISHOP SIMPSON.

The venerable Bishop Simpson of the Methodist Episcopal church, who has just passed away, was the oldest dignitary in that denomination. He was born in 1811, and has been a bishop over thirty-two years. Bishop Simpson was a power in molding opinion during the early days of the war, and his utterances and writings did much to create a strong Union sentiment throughout the country. It is somewhat remarkable that he achieved such success as a preacher when it is known that in early youth he was averse to speaking in public, and a knowledge of this fact ought to make conspicuous the value of hard work as one of the chief lessons of his career. His mastery of English speech and his attainments as a scholar were the products of laborious application under the stimulus of an inextinguishable zeal in the cause to which he devoted his life when in 1829, at the age of 18 years, he was received into the Methodist church. After his graduation at Madison college, subsequently merged into Allegheny college, his first pastoral work was in the Pittsburg conference, where he was soon recognized as a young man of unusual ability and zeal. He was professor of natural science in Allegheny college from 1837 to 1839, president of the Indiana Asbury university from 1839 to 1848, and editor of the Western Christian Advocate from 1848 to 1852, the latter year being the date of his ordination as a bishop, in Boston. For thirty-two years he has performed the work of the bishopric with distinguished efficiency, and his life of seventy-three years has been one of the most useful of his time.

Blaine's American Policy.

Chicago Tribune.

One of the strongest arguments addressed to the American people in favor of Blaine's election comes from England. We refer to the comment made by the Pall Mall Gazette upon Blaine's nomination, published in yesterday's Tribune. His selection is regarded with apprehension on the other side of the water because, if elected, Blaine will do more to advance American trade interests than to favor English trade interests. After explaining Blaine's American policy, the Pall Mall Gazette proceeded to say:

Of course, he does not propose to drive us out at the point of the bayonet. He is not a lunatic, but a very able and shrewd Yankee. But wherever he can he will oust us from the position which we hold; whenever an opportunity offers he will use it to the uttermost to replace our influence and our trade by the influence and trade of the United States, and he will regard it as his chief object to promote a great American confederacy under the ægis of the government at Washington, which would tend to increase the export trade of the United States at the expense of that of Great Britain. This is no mere inference from his acts. It is avowed almost in so many words in an article which he published two years ago in a Chicago magazine [recently copied into the Tribune], and it is confirmed by every dispatch which he wrote during his short tenure of office under General Garfield.

The above is a very fair statement of Blaine's policy. He proposes by peaceful means, as the English writer admits, to supplant European influence and trade wherever he can on the American continent by the influence and trade of the United States. It is easy to understand why the English should deplore the successful inauguration of such a policy, and would therefore prefer to see Mr. Blaine defeated. But the very same reason which the English have for opposing his election is the very best reason in the world why the Americans should elect him. England may be the loser by Mr. Blaine's policy, but the United States will be the gainer. It is not because we love England less, but the United States more, that Mr. Blaine's policy should be received by the American people with an approval and a support fully equal to the disapproval and opposition it receives at the hands of the English people. The extension of the political and commercial influence of the United States by peaceful methods is the most glorious ambition which could fill the bosom of an American citizen.

England's preeminence in the world's commerce is due primarily to a steadfast adherence to the very policy which meets with English opposition when it is proposed for the United States. Whenever England has gained a foothold in any quarter of the globe she has watched it, protected it and developed it. The unpopularity with which Gladstone's government is threatened to-day is due to remissness and tardiness in defending England's interests on foreign soil. Mr. Blaine's ambition does not contemplate conquest, nor acquisition of territory, nor complications of any kind with foreign governments. But he looks forward to the development of more intimate political and trade relations among the nations of the American continent. England is not to be driven out by the sword, but the geographical advantages and material resources of the United States are to be developed and improved by government support to the end that the people of this country may enjoy them in the fullest extent. England may not like that prospect; but is there anything about it which is calculated to excite the opposition of the American people? It is to be hoped that the English newspapers will continue to ventilate Blaine's policy, and that they will be assisted by the dudes and cowards on this side of the Atlantic, for nothing will reach the hearts of the American people more quickly or more directly than a vigorous American policy.

No "Soap" will be Necessary.

Washington Critic.

A Critic reporter met Mr. Kilbourn and asked his views as to the effect of the republican nominations.

"There has been no political campaign," said Mr. Kilbourn, "since the Tippecanoe campaign in 1840, which will at all compare with the Blaine and Logan enthusiasm of this year. The people will take charge of this contest and no special emissaries will be needed as in 1880 to work up a boom, and no soap will be necessary in Indiana or other states."

"What will be the result?"

"Blaine and Logan will carry every northern state, the two Virginias, North Carolina and Florida, and the party will elect several members of congress throughout the other southern states."

An esteemed Blaine organ has already got to the point of calling Gillam, the maker of the famous tattooed man caricature, "a dirty blackguard Englishman."

OLD HICKORY.

An Account of the Attempt to Kill President Jackson.

Chattanooga Democrat.

Andrew Jackson had many bitter enemies. Being naturally a man of violent temper, he had never learned to control himself, and in the discharge of his official duty he had been compelled to give great offense to many who honestly differed from him. His first veto of the bank bills and his prompt measures to put down nullification inflamed the passions of his political opponents. Many said and believed that he was ruining the country, and so aggravated the feelings against him by his unyielding and imperious manner.

A Mr. Randolph, who had been a lieutenant in the navy, and had been cashiered, attempted to pull President Johnson's nose publicly, and, report says, more than half succeeded. At least the president's face was covered with blood. His pride was wounded in this case, but there was no actual danger.

"Had I known," said Jackson, "that Randolph stood before me, I should have been prepared, and I could have defended myself. No villain ever escaped me before, and he would not had it not been for my confined position." [The president was seated in an armchair when attacked].

Far more serious was the attempt made upon the president's life January 30, 1835. On that day the president and his cabinet and both houses of congress met in the hall of the house of representatives to take part in the funeral ceremonies of a deceased member of congress from South Carolina. As the president, near the head of the procession, was passing out from the rotunda of the capitol and was about to enter the portico, a man stepped out of the crowd, and standing not eight feet from the president leveled a pistol at him and pulled the trigger. The cap missed fire. The man instantly drew a second pistol from under his cloak and again tried to shoot. But the second cap also missed fire. President Jackson rushed furiously at the assassin with uplifted cane, and would have felled him to the ground, but before he could reach the man Lieutenant Gedny of the navy had knocked him down, and he was speedily secured. The prisoner, who was an English house painter, named Lawrence Porter, explained his motive in words which apply with singular aptness to the case of the wretched Goltiau.

Hearing on all sides that the country had been ruined by the measures of General Jackson, the project of assassinating him had fastened itself in his crazy mind. The physicians who examined him reported:

"He stated that, believing the president to be the source of all his difficulties, he was still fixed in his purpose to kill him, and, if his successor pursued the same course, to put him out of the way also."

Lawrence was placed in an asylum. The insinuations of the Globe that he was the agency of a conspiracy obtained no general confidence. But Jackson himself always insisted that abler minds than Lawrence's had instigated the assault. Miss Martineau, who witnessed the ceremonies and had a confused view of the exciting scene when the president was shot at, writes in her "Retrospect of Western Travel:"

"When I did go to the White house I took the briefest possible notice to the president of the 'insane attempt' of Lawrence, but the word aroused his ire. He protested, in the presence of many strangers, that there was no insanity in the case. I was silent, of course. He protested that there was a plot and that the man was a tool, and at last quoted the attorney general as his authority. It was painful to hear a chief ruler publicly trying to persuade a foreigner that any of his constituents hated him to the death, and I took the liberty to change the subject."

General Jackson, to his dying hour, suspected George Poindexter of Mississippi of having participated in the attempt to assassinate him, but few, if any, even of his own partisans, shared in this suspicion.

Faithfulness is necessary in all kinds of work. Especially is it necessary, in treating a cold, to procure the best remedy, which is Allen's Lung Balsam, and take it faithfully according to directions, and it will cure a cold every time and prevent fatal results. Sold by all druggists.

CITY.

ASSAULTED BY SOME ONE.—N. Davis was charged with battery upon Kate Norman was in the police court yesterday afternoon. Davis is the husband of Mrs. Norman. She testified that at he was at her part of the house on Friday he began using abusive language. She went out, and, instead of going he turned on her, she says, and beat her severely. She and arms appeared to be bruised just as she said. She had produced her evidence all those who were at the time being either relatives or her friends. He produced a half dozen witnesses, among his wife, nearly every one of whom testified as to being witnessed a different altercation between him and Norman, and all felt equally sure that he struck her, and wouldn't if he could. Mrs. Norman, positive that her husband did not strike her, and said he had all the time been busy, because she said he had all to do to keep Mrs. Norman from striking him; and during which all of Davis' witnesses testified that Mrs. Norman did not have a mark on Sunday, although she exhibited upon her arms a bruise that was fearfully discolored. She swore by stating that Davis struck her above the hair and the discolored eyes were settled below the eye about [illegible] afterward. Davis and his wife [illegible] testified that on Saturday night there was a battle between Mr. and Mrs. Norman's apartments, and such soon is if she had been struck by it. Finally the case was continued to allow the production of other witnesses.

[illegible]—The town of Heppner, I mail'ls had rather a sudden rise in its creek on the 21st. Heavy rains, or perhaps along the western spur of the Blue [illegible] to cause, and the water came down the creek with a mighty rush. The bridge across Rhea creek at the mouth was washed away and Mr. W. B. Cain [illegible] at that point was flooded and almost [illegible]. Appearances indicate that the thunder were rather emphatic up in the timber where sheep are now on summer range and the herders will bring in serious stories [illegible].

Some few [illegible] be left for [illegible] until July [illegible] Clerk Sewall may have time to [illegible] rolls and turn his office over [illegible] with his work all completed.

[illegible]—There are in the window of [illegible] store, corner of First and [illegible] specimens of quartz from [illegible] of Eagle creek, near Eagle [illegible] brought down by Dr. E. O. [illegible].—At a special meeting of [illegible] and Gun Club held last night, [illegible] accept the invitation of the Seattle [illegible], extant on the Fourth of July. [illegible] will leave for Seattle on [illegible].

UNDERTOOK TOO MUCH.—Mr. ——, who lives on Fourth street, is a good runner, and prides himself no little upon that fact. He often tells of the fast time he used to make, when in training at college, and even now brags of his ability to get over the ground in a hurry when ever necessity demands it. Last night he jumped aboard the west side train bound up Fourth street out of the city, to catch a ride home just after the train had crossed Salmon street. It was just getting under good headway for the steep grade when Mr. ——, leaning out, saw a friend upon the platform ahead of him. Something that he had in his head to say to this friend and [illegible] became of the utmost importance and he conceived the brilliant idea of running forward alongside the train and getting upon the front platform. No sooner thought than done, and he drew a good long breath as he started in to beat the train. He at first gained a little and was just on the point of grasping the rail of the forward platform when the engineer happened to throw the throttle of his engine wide open and put on the death to the [illegible]. Little by little every inch of vantage re[illegible] although M—— was running as he never ran before. The blood mounted to his cheeks and his dander riz until he was the maddest man in Oregon at that moment. It made no difference to him that he couldn't reach the forward platform now. He was running for that although it would have been hard for him to have said just what he was running for. He was even absolutely [illegible] he did not jump on the last platform when that passed him. However that did not matter for as the train slowed down to stop at College street he found himself in front of his own house, having covered ten blocks in the fastest time on record and up hill at that. His wife came out and helped him into the house and the doctor says he can quit eating salt and pounded ice with safety in a [illegible] day or two.

ALMOST A CODFISH.—For some weeks past a new fish has been making its appearance in the Columbia river, that is, it is a new fish to us. A specimen was sent to William Hume at Eagle Cliff, and that pioneer fisherman sent down word last evening that the fish is a hake. A good many years ago in a country where codfish is a good deal plentier than in the Columbia, a hake was looked upon as something that was just going to taste and look like a codfish but fell just short of the mark. It bears about the same relation to a codfish that a steelhead does to a chinook salmon. The specimen exhibited to the writer last Sunday morning was about sixteen inches long, had a large head and a [illegible] mouth, large staring eyes, a straight slim rounding body and tapered to a small tail. It has a fin extending along the back and another along its belly, and resembles a [illegible] pikerel more than any [illegible] else in the fish line lately seen. The fishermen say that their numbers are in[creasing] [illegible] one said that he caught 120 in his net one day last week. The [illegible] is noted for the variety and fine quality of its fish. To the list must be added the hake. The next thing will be the original [illegible] codfish.—Astorian.

POLICEMAN INJURED.—About 2 o'clock yesterday morning policeman Andrew Holmburg arrested T. McGrath, one of the roughest roughs in town, for being drunk and disorderly. The prisoner was very wild, but the officer, who is too kind hearted with such ruffians, did not want to use nippers on his client. While passing [illegible] Oak street near the city jail, McGrath threw his legs around Holmberg's, and the sidewalk being wet the officer slipped against a window, which was smashed. One of the pieces of glass cut a deep gash in his left arm and several stitches were required to stop the bleeding. Mr. Holmberg will be laid up a few days. McGrath's case has not yet been disposed of.

PORTLANDER HURT.—Mr. I. D. Houtoon, who went from Portland to the Coeur d'Alene region about three months ago, met with a mishap the other day, and is now suffering from the breaking of some of his ribs. Mr. Houtoon has a large general merchandise establishment at Pritchard creek above Murrayville, and in stepping out of a cabin a few days ago he fell and hurt himself as above-mentioned.

BASEBALL.—The newly organized Stars are in receipt of a dispatch from the Dalles baseball club accepting a challenge to play two matches at City View park next Saturday and Sunday. The Dalles nine have cleaned out every club they have played with this season, including the Salem nine.

DEATH OF A PROMINENT ASTORIAN.—A private dispatch received here yesterday from Astoria announces the death of A. Van Dusen of that city. Mr. Van Dusen has been a resident of this state for nearly forty years and was widely known as an honorable man and an excellent citizen.

AMUSEMENTS.

BANDMANN'S SHYLOCK.—Bandmann, the eminent German tragedian, appeared last evening at New Market theater in one of his greatest impersonations—Shylock, in Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice." To do full justice to Mr. Bandmann's conception and rendering of this great creation of the immortal bard would be an almost impossible task at this late hour, and in the brief space allotted. It is [illegible] the character of the Jew with an excellence differing in many particulars from other actors. He does not [illegible] Shylock as cringing, fawning and obsequious, a nature as [illegible] Barrett or Sheridan. While he is the very personification of avarice he invests the character with a degree of pride and haughtiness not seen in the traditional Shylock. He is miserly and grasping and [illegible] malignant in his hatred to the Christian, yet he does not overlook the [illegible] a wealthy and aristocratic merchant [illegible]. This conception of the part is made con[illegible] the opinion of Bandmann. To make up [illegible], expression, manner and gesture he [illegible] the [illegible] and speaking eminently [illegible] of Shakespeare's character. No one can witness the rendering of Shylock by Herr Bandmann [illegible] thoroughly impressed with the thought that he has made a most thorough, critical study of the character and grasped it in all its proper [illegible]. The support while reasonably good, is by no means above criticism. John S. Lindsay, an old favorite with Portland theater goers and always a certain, painstaking actor, was intrusted with the important part of Antonio. It is unnecessary to add that he gave a very intelligent and acceptable interpretation. Miss Louise Beaudet assumed the part of Portia with a good deal of grace and force. In the court scene she delivered the famous speech opening with "The quality of mercy is not strained," quite effectively, but easily marred it by a fault in elocution, being at times too declamatory and vehement. Miss Verney scored a success as Lorenzo. Her acting was natural and easy and reading clear and pleasant. [illegible] was acceptably rendered by Miss Mary Lawman. The distribution of the remainder of the cast was as follows: Gratiano, [illegible]; Bassanio, [illegible] Lorenzo, Miss Verney; Launcelot Gobbo, J. W. Delano; [illegible] G. Maud; Solanio, G. W. Marks; Salarino, M. I. [illegible]; duke of Venice, Mark Reed; Nerissa, Miss Mary Dreyer.

This evening Romeo and Juliet will be produced. Miss Verney will take the part of Romeo and Miss Beaudet that of the fair and gentle daughter of the Capulets. Thursday evening Othello; Friday Narcisse (this is Herr Bandmann's greatest character); Saturday afternoon East Lynne; Saturday evening farewell performance, Richard III.

BRIEF MENTION.

[illegible] at New Market to-night.

[illegible] Holdesman has returned from his Victoria trip.

The State of California sails for San Francisco to-night.

[illegible] Harris, a colored man who has a white wife, was yesterday fined $30 by Justice White for beating her.

The remains of Captain Armstrong, who died in this city on Monday, were yesterday shipped to Walla Walla for burial.

Passengers for San Francisco can have their baggage checked at their residence by leaving orders corner Second and Stark. No charge for checking.

Henry C. Herman, who went to San Francisco by steamer ten days ago, slipped from the gang plank at the dock here and sprained his ankle so badly that he is still laid up.

P. J. Mountain, bailiff of the state circuit court, and policeman [illegible] have agreed to row a race in working boats next Sunday afternoon for $[illegible] a side. The course has not yet been chosen.

The theater comique, a low variety dive on Washington street, between Front and First, which depended on whisky and beer selling for its support, has been closed up as unprofitable. Tenants of buildings in that vicinity are accordingly thankful.

Ah Wah, servant of Mrs. L. Blumauer, who borrowed a ring from the lady in order to get one made like it, and failed to return it, was yesterday held to answer by Judge Moreland and furnished bonds for his appearance before the grand jury.

Several persons make complaint that a bull is allowed to run loose in South Portland in the neighborhood of the old cricket ground much to the terror of the women and children and no little to the danger of any one who might chance to be wearing a red skirt or taking out a red handkerchief.

THE CANADIAN SOCIETY REUNION.

Third Annual Meeting at Gervais—Rain Interferes with Out-Door Exercises—Speeches, Etc.

The third annual reunion of the Canadian Society of Oregon was held at Gervais yesterday. The day dawned unpropitiously but notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the sky the residents of the surrounding country commenced coming into town early in the day in large numbers. A little before 10 A. M. it commenced to rain and when the train arrived from Portland with William Foley, orator of the day, and a number of less important personages including a couple of reporters, they landed amid a heavy downpour of rain. The programme for the occasion had included a picnic and speech-making in a beautiful grove near town, but the "regulation picnic weather" prevailing, interfered with this plan. The people who had assembled there and in the shelter of the awnings for a time, and the visitors from a distance, although they were in a for[illegible] the patronage of [illegible] hall. [illegible] was [illegible] the delusion was heightened by the appearance [illegible] of them [illegible] the [illegible] time [illegible] in that vicinity [illegible] in his long black gown in them [illegible] resulting [illegible] shoulders to [illegible] like a silhouette of one of the friars of [illegible].

After a while the [illegible] and a gleam of sunshine [illegible] the French prairie and the [illegible] [illegible] to drive [illegible] discoursing their sweetest strains [illegible] the band had been taken [illegible]. As the picnic was impracticable the [illegible] dinner at the hotel and were then treated to more music by the band.

At [illegible] the members of the society wearing badges [illegible] the maple leaf and beaver formed [illegible] procession under the direction of grand marshal A. Chamberlain and with the band at their head and banners flying marched to Gervais's hall. There the assemblage was called to order by Mr. David Girard, president of the society, who made a short speech in French and another in English and then introduced the orator of the day, Wm. Foley of the Portland bar, the orator of the day.

Mr. Foley spoke at some length and by his eloquence held the attention of his audience. His speech was replete with [illegible] and English [illegible] French [illegible] and Irish wit, pathos and humor.

The meeting was also addressed by Judge D'Arcy of Salem in his usual felicitous style.

A dispatch from [illegible] expressing his regret at not being able to be present, also a letter from Hon. J. E. Caples expressing the same sentiments.

At the close of the oratorical exercises an election of officers for the ensuing year was held with the following result: Honorary president, F. X. Matthieu; president, F. X. Matthieu; vice president, Antoine [illegible]; secretary, A. M. [illegible]; corresponding secretary, James Manion; treasurer, Fred [illegible]; directors, [illegible] D. Girard and G. O. Pell.

A match game of base ball was played during the afternoon between the St. Paul and Woodburn nines, the former winning by a score of 27 to 26.

A grand ball in the evening terminated the day's festivities in a most pleasing and acceptable manner.

NOTES.

The Fourth of July committee met last evening and the various sub-committees reported progress. These reports show everything to be progressing favorably toward a grand result.

[illegible] Whalen, councilman-elect from the Second ward, qualified for the position yesterday. To-day being the tenth after election is the limit prescribed for qualification of councilmen.

In the event of rain this morning the excursion of the Presbyterian church and Sunday schools of East Portland will be postponed till Friday, otherwise it will positively take place. No rain, no postponement.

A large audience assembled at Hall & Stott's hall last evening to hear Mrs. Foster, the celebrated temperance lecturer, and were well repaid for their trouble. She fully sustained the fame that had preceded her, in the estimation of all present.

M. [illegible], who runs the cheese farm at Fairview, got into a dispute with one Johnny Snover at that place the other day, resulting in the latter savagely assaulting [illegible] with a [illegible] [illegible] for the purpose. [illegible] has entered a complaint against Snover for assault and battery in Justice [illegible] court and his case will probably come up to-day.

NOTES FROM THE CAMPGROUND.

New recruits came into camp Monday from various points in the state. As the meeting progresses the interest in its services increases. The conference convened again at 8 A. M. and after a little routine business was transacted. The religious services of the afternoon and evening consisted of a bible reading in the relation of church members to the church [illegible] conducted by Elder J. O. Corliss. Much interest was shown on the part of the audience in the [illegible]. By a thorough reading of the various texts [illegible] a meeting was called to organize a council to embrace the Pacific coast states and territories. Elder Waggoner of California was chosen chairman and Elder [illegible] of Washington territory secretary. The [illegible] was [illegible] by the adoption of a few brief and simple rules for the guidance of the body in its deliberations. After completing the organization remarks were made by Elders Waggoner, Loughborough and [illegible] relative to the mission field [illegible] every direction and [illegible] and the work the council hopes to accomplish in these [illegible]. In the evening Elder [illegible] discoursed to an attentive audience on the United States in the light of prophecy. The camp meeting continues over next Sunday.

Notwithstanding the rain the services in camp were well attended yesterday. At [illegible] a bible reading was conducted by Elder [illegible] on the Office of the spirit of God, showing that to the holy spirit is attributed creative power, that it reproves the sinner, and it informs the saint, sanctifies the believer, edifies the church, organizes the work of the ministry and maintains the unity of the church, and raises [illegible]. A meeting of the North Pacific conference was held at 6 P. M., also a children's meeting at the same hour, and a canvasser's class in which instruction is given in the art of canvassing for subscribers for the society's publications and the sale of their denominational books, also bibles and helps of bible study. At 7:30 Elder J. O. Corliss gave a deeply interesting discourse upon the seven seals, Rev. [illegible], tracing the connection of the church and the world from the first advent of Christ to the second, dwelling particularly upon the events of the sixth and seventh seals, showing the restitution of the Sabbath of the fourth commandment to its proper place in the law of God and the hearts of the church of Christ in the last days, and indicating by the scriptures that there will be an important reformation in the world, the effect of which will be to fit a people for the coming of the Lord, for which this people are looking earnestly. The usual services will be continued to-day at 10:00, 2:30 and 7:45. This evening Elder J. N. Loughborough will speak.

THE WRECKED UMATILLA.

Brief Account of the Preparations which had been made to Raise her and which Proved a Failure.

The failure to raise the steamer Umatilla that lies at the bottom of the Esquimault harbor, which was chronicled in the dispatches from Victoria yesterday morning, created some disappointment among those who are interested here. To give some idea of the manner in which the attempt to raise her was made the following from the Victoria Times will prove of interest:

The Times reporter visited the sunken steamer this morning and found her surrounded with heavy [illegible] and other wrecking apparatus all under the charge of Captain Thomas A. Whitelaw of San Francisco, who has the contract for raising her. The hole was in her forward compartment about six feet abaft her [illegible] about [illegible] was very large—in fact the whole bow was knocked off—and divers closed this hole by building [illegible] and then [illegible] as [illegible] to [illegible] consisting of 100 barrels of cement and [illegible] more than that of sand.

The divers [illegible] fastened single irons at [illegible] the edge of the deck about eight feet apart. To these they bolted heavy planks to a [illegible] making a [illegible] from the [illegible] to a height—when she is righted—of two feet above the water line. When she is righted they expect at the pumping to [illegible] [illegible] water will cause her to rise. Captain Whitelaw's wrecking party have been at work on her since the 11th of April and expect if the weather is favorable to right her to-morrow. It will then take about three weeks work before she will come to the surface.

In righting her two pontoons are used especially constructed by Captain Whitelaw. They are [illegible] in shape and capable of lifting 450 tons each. These are made of heavy timber and strongly bolted and are thoroughly fitted with automatic valves and flood gates and are emptied by compressed air.

At some distance from the ship and each other are two rafts fitted with a capstan and tackle and still farther again beyond this are anchored at [illegible] from each other two sets of anchors of two each so arranged as not to drag. It is on these rafts where will be done the ultimate work of righting her. To one raft a chain leads across [illegible] from one set of anchors and to the same raft leads another chain [illegible] the top of the [illegible] mast. This leads to the other raft in the same way from the bottom and from the other set of anchors. At the rafts these chains are connected with [illegible] and when the capstan tightens this [illegible] something at the end of the chain must give and as the anchors won't the mast at the other end of the chain must be drawn slowly toward the capstan, thus righting the ship.

As the straight [illegible] the reasoning of the last paragraph above was fallacious. Something did give. But it was the chains themselves. However Capt. Whitelaw although [illegible] to [illegible] every day [illegible] [illegible] and will try it over again and this time he hopes with better success.

GRAND LODGE OF GOOD TEMPLARS.

CORVALLIS, June 20.

The grand lodge was called to order by Grand Worthy Chief Templar G. F. Tozier. The officers were all present. The day was spent in the transaction of the various business of the order, and was the most interesting day of the session. The matter of the Orphans' Home was one of great interest, and the grand lodge decided to go ahead with the construction of buildings as soon as a sufficient amount of funds was raised.

The grand lodge voted to expend a sum not to exceed $300 for juvenile work.

The per capita tax will remain at 10 cents per quarter.

The salary of the grand secretary was raised to $400 and $100 back pay was voted.

A communication was received from Rev. W. L. Houston, representative to the right worthy grand lodge.

The lodge passed a resolution thanking the O. & C. R. R. Co. for courtesies shown, also to the citizens of Corvallis for entertaining the delegates free of charge.

A lively discussion took place on the resolution to have the grand lodge defray a portion of the traveling expenses of delegates. It was shown that the grand lodge should do something to encourage lodges at a distance to send delegates. About 100 lodges were not represented, because no one could afford to lose the time to go to grand lodge and pay traveling expenses. The resolution was lost but will probably pass at the next session.

Corvallis lodge was shown to be the banner lodge of the jurisdiction, it having 170 members in good standing.

There were twenty five deaths in the jurisdiction during the past year.

The discussions on the reports of the various committees took up much time and it was not till 7 P. M. that the gong sounded and the twentieth session of the grand lodge of Oregon was declared adjourned. The next session will be held in Roseburg the third Tuesday in June, 1885.

The patient had all the symptoms of confirmed consumption—cold night sweats, hectic fever, harrassing coughs, etc. He commenced immediately to get better and was soon restored to his usual health. I also found DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS the most valuable expectorant for breaking up distressing coughs and colds."

LOVES OF THE MOUNTAINS

[The following poem, written by Miss De Etta Coggswell, was read by her at the alumni meeting of the State university at Eugene June 18 1884]

When this far west was in its youth
Where ocean thundered on the steeps
Of new made boundaries
Rushed inland with the mighty force
Of all its moon swayed tides
Sounding reverberations deep
And loud from iron bound cliffs
St. Helens reared her fair young head
And looked to where two mountains stood
In undivided brotherhood,
The kings of the vast solitude
That stretched o'er all this new-made land
Low at their feet lay forests deep
Interminable forests long since dead
And buried underneath
Debris of countless ages
And creatures stranger than
The eye of man hath seen
Huge Oreodons and Bramatheres
Lumbered their unwieldy bulks along
The margin of lost seas,
And roamed the awful silences
Of those primeval woods

* * *

Know ye these mountains now
Lo! sundered far they stand
Old Hood all seamed and scarred—
Mount Adams like a God,
Sublime majestic.

Cycles and eons have swept,
Thus savage legends run—
Vast changeful shadows o'er
Their hoary summits
Since wild western tides washed in
With sounding music hung
Upward salt showers against
St. Helens' frozen breast
Since mailed and helmeted
These kingly warriors held
In brotherhood the land

* * * *

Long, long they gazed
In growing tenderness upon
Their queenly sister,
White browed, serene to westward,
Till their great deep hearts were stirred
And all their veins ran fire,
And jealous hate rose up
Enshrouding them
In black sulphuric clouds
And each environment of crag
And cliff and stately canyon wall
Convulsive shuddered
All the wild western world
Thrilled with a sympathetic fear

The mighty peaks grown rivals
And, enraged, hurled
Each to each defiance
Rolled threatening peals of thunder
Belched floods of flame
That in volcanic fury pouring down
Swallowed up the forests at their feet,
Spreading desolation;
Burst forth with awful glare
Thus lit the vast upheaval
Of that mountain world
Crashing into chaos
With a sound that made
Old Ocean tremble in
His rocky bed

Three thousand years they fought,
As mortal man counts time,
Then
The rocky forces of the Andean chain
Which walls this mighty continent,
Tore these fierce foes apart
And gathering up the scattered waters
Sent a broad deep river,
Thundering down between

* * * * * *

And then Mount Adams turned
And looked upon St. Helens,
There stole a flush
Of warmest sunset
O'er her virgin brow,
And all the rage died out
Of his great soul,
And calm content
Reigned there forever more
Southward
Beyond Columbia's cleaving current
Mount Hood in sullen grandeur
Feeds the smouldering fires
Of his baffled hate—
Waiting

CAMPAIGN DRIFT.

The republican platform was made for Blaine and Blaine for the platform —San Francisco Post

The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin claims to be unable to find any German republican who will bolt Blaine.

Ex-Senator Sharon says there is only one man who can successfully contest California with Blaine, and he is Stephen J Field

The Blaine papers of Iowa agree that the two delegates from that state who, being free from instructions, voted for Arthur committed "treason "

If Gail Hamilton has anything to say in the matter Mr Blaine's letter of acceptance will be a saucy one —Omaha Herald

Arthur's fight for a renomination was like his administration—clean and honorable. He has nothing to regret, and he stands higher than ever in popular esteem —Denver Republican.

Somebody remembers that so late as March, 1873, Bayard urged that the government should pay for the slaves set free, and declared that they were legally the best recognized property in the land This, it is said, will aggravate the effect of his Dover speech

John Sherman writes to a Cincinnati ratification meeting that he shall contribute to the election of Blaine and Logan, adding that "the democratic party cannot be safely trusted with the government of this great country "

Carl Schurz recently declined a gift of $100,000 He also threw up his lucrative employment on the New York Evening Post, because he disapproved that paper's denial of the rights and claims of the striking telegraph operators last summer Now the crow eaters are sneering at him as a mercenary politician because he cannot be hired to support Blaine —St. Louis Post Dispatch

"S. B G," in the Traveller has discovered "the singular fact that—providentially ordained, without human forethought—the republican ticket, 'Blaine and Logan,' when its letters are transposed form the expressive anagram Gain a Noble Land!' " We shall not dispute the wonderful significance of letters transposed, but S B G apparently did not discover that it was "providentially ordained, without human forethought " that the same letters otherwise transposed, form the expressive anagram "A Band All Gone In!" Let the young people note this also! Providence has also ordained, without human foresight, that other transpositions of the same letters give the expressive anagram, "A Gain All Boned," and "Deal in Loan! Bang" We cannot exactly explain what these expressions mean, for the ways of Providence are mysterious and its ordinances, especially when made without human forethought, may be a little hard to comprehend. But, whatever they may mean, there is no doubt they should be observed even when they take the form of anagrams. Our efforts to elucidate to some extent the hidden mysteries of providential ordinances are freely given, and if we shall become the humble instrument of making the pathway of duty clearer to those in doubt, our purpose will be accomplished —Boston Advertiser

He will Vote for Blaine

Ex-Mayor Robert Riddell, of Pittsburg Pa., an old and life-long democrat, has sent the following dispatch to Colonel Bayne of Chicago

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 6—2 P M —Colonel Thomas M Bayne, Republican Convention, Chicago Ill: Never voted for a republican Give me Blaine and I will make it toll in Ohio, where the votes are needed. ROBERT RIDDELL.

In explanation of his course, Mr Riddell said "This eternal clamor among the democratic leaders for free trade has tired me out How did I come to send that dispatch to Bayne? Well, I was very much interested in him, and watched the bulletins from Chicago anxiously When the second ballot was bulletined, and showed Blaine beginning to pull away from Arthur I could hardly keep from hurrahing with the crowd I came down to my office then and sent the dispatch I mean every word of it—with my cost off."

Mr Riddell has lived in Pittsburg ever since he first came from England, thirty-one years ago He is proprietor of the Gallatin glass works near Mansfield and heavily interested in the brewing firm of Spencer, McKay & Co , and interested in a number of other industrial and commercial enterprises. He was seven years in the coal business, is vice-president of the Metropolitan national bank, and a director in several other banks and insurance companies He is a man of large means, and has long been prominent in the democratic party He was elected mayor of Pittsburg in 1877 over Miles Humphries, and defeated for the same office by Mayor Fulton last February He has extensive business relations and a large acquaintance in Ohio which gives significance to the concluding words of his telegram

An Accomplished Negro Butler

Washington Cor Philadelphia Record

One day last fall a handsome mulatto boy came to the door of a friend of mine, asking for work He was a good butler, he explained, despite his years he had been carefully trained and could do many things outside his strict line of duty My friend happened to need just such a serving man and accepted him very imprudently on his face which was good without asking particularly for his recommendations, which were bad He was a most accomplished servant He knew all about the dining room he knew all about the front room he was willing and ready and quiet and a great success in every way He was an extremely polite boy thoroughly gentle and kind and he soon worked his way into the good graces of the family One day, when one of the young ladies was playing on the piano, he was discovered listening The next day he was found listening again His devotion to music was remarked upon Finally he plucked up courage enough to ask whether he could not sit down to the piano at odd moments when the ladies were otherwise engaged They said he could He did at the first opportunity, and for a mulatto serving-man he played exquisitely But when he had won the hearts of the whole family he stepped out with all the jewelry he could lay his delicate hands on. On Tuesday he was arraigned at the bar of the police court, charged with having swindled a dozen families in the same way. He pleaded guilty in his dulcet tones to each charge, and was held in heavy bail for trial

"Something under " Thus, according to the January statement the interest bearing debt of the United States is something under $13 000,000 000 —New Englander.

Angostura Bitters is a household word all over the world. For over 50 years it has advertised itself by its merits. It is now advertised to warn the public against counterfeits. The genuine article is manufactured by Dr. J G B Siegert & Sons

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY, June 24

A hard shower last evening and another this afternoon has greatly added to the season's moisture Cloudy weather is this morning reported from the eastern section with a fine rain last night at Walla Walla The Snake river fell one inch at Riparia in 24 hours The Columbia fell at Celilo and is standing at Umatilla and the Cascades The Willamette fell about 2 inches

The New York stock market to day shows more tone and the declines are nearly offset by advances Transcontinental closed a fraction lower and Navigation half a point better

Overland receipts include 20 qr 84 hf 20 bbls beer 250 kgs horseshoes 24 bxs nails

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours 793 c ls wheat, 730 bbls flour, 438 ctls oats, 20 sks potatoes, 11 220 lbs wool 87 bales hides 60 cs eggs 5 bxs fruit, 9 pkgs butter, 200 bbls lime Also 275 ctls wheat 150 bbls flour 120 330 lbs wool 2076 lbs h des 210 sks flaxseed from the eastern section

WHEAT—Advices to day show nothing of new importance at San Francisco A fair business was done in futures which closed easier under the influence of free offerings. The local market is quite inactive receipts including no new purchases

The London correspondent of the Financial Chronicle under date of May 24, writes as follows

Fine weather and ample supplies actual and prospective, have caused the wheat trade to continue in a very dull and inanimate state. The general report is that there is nothing doing, that is to say, that there is no speculation, and that the business in progress is almost entirely, if not wholly, for the supply of actual wants If the present dry and brilliant weather continues the harvest will be early and as there is a similar prospect on the continent the probability is that the current season will be a short one, as there will be supplies of newly harvested produce at market at an earlier date than usual Undoubtedly the prospect for consumers is a satisfactory one, and the only encouragement which is likely to accrue to British farmers is this—that there is a promise of a crop of good quality which is a very essential result when so much competition exists The intrinsic value of the crop is enhanced considerably, and less difficulty will be experienced in securing a ready sale. The crops however both here and abroad have to pass through some critical stages before we can congratulate ourselves over another harvest-home.

FLOUR—The Aberystwith Castle has cleared with 9251 barrels for Liverpool. The market is slow at old values. The Minneapolis Miller, June 20 says:

The threatened advance in eastern freight rates has given a certain impetus to milling operations on the Falls that was absent a week ago, and the most of the mills are making an effort to increase their output well up to the maximum, though not always successful in this With warm, sultry weather for several days past, wheat has worked "tough," and does not admit of a mill running to full capacity Millers, as a rule however are anxious to increase the output of their mills, and the latter are doing as much better in this respect as they can

PROVISIONS—The Chicago market to-day recovers a small part of the late declines, and it is possible that bottom prices have been reached Our market has not been influenced to a quotable extent and dealers have maintained asking prices Home cats especially those not the best have been in slow sale

DRIED FRUITS—The market moves along slowly developing no new feature Dealers are now mostly working on stocks, which are not being added to

OATS—Choice feed sold up to 49 yesterday This is an extreme and could not be obtained to-day Quote 47@48

A Safeguard.

The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand as a household remedy a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works so sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician Prof F Sweetzer, of the Maine Medical School Brunswick Me says —

"Medical science has produced no other anodyne expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is invaluable for diseases of the throat and lungs "

The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr L J Addison, of Chicago, Ill, who says —

"I have never found in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is more effective than anything else in relieving even the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections "

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular confidence, but a medicine which is to-day saving the lives of the third generation who have come into being since it was first offered to the public

There is not a household in which this invaluable remedy has once been introduced where its use has ever been abandoned, and there is not a person who has ever given it a proper trial for any throat or lung disease susceptible of cure, who has not been made well by it

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured obstinate cases of chronic Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and even acute Pneumonia, and has saved many patients in the earlier stages of Pulmonary Consumption It is a medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed in every house where there are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough.

These are all plain facts which can be verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody

SPRING

Is the season in which bad or poisoned blood is most apt to show itself Nature at this juncture, needs something to assist it in throwing off the impurities which have collected by the sluggish circulation of the blood during the cold winter months. Swift's Specific is nature's great helper as it is a purely vegetable alterative and tonic.

Rev L. B. Payne Macon Ga, writes "We have been using Swift's Specific at the orphans home as a remedy for blood complaints and as a general health tonic and have had remarkable results from its use on the children and employes of the institution. It is such an excellent tonic and keeps the blood so pure that the system is less liable to disease It has cured some of our children of scrofula.

W H Gilbert druggist Albany, Ga, writes "We are selling large quantities of Swift's Specific for a spring alterative and general health tonic and with the best results It is now largely used as a preventive of and cure for Malaria. There are many remarkable evidences of its merit in this section

The Great Drug House of Chicago.

We do not hesitate to say that for a year past we have sold more of Swift's Specific (S S S) than all other Blood Purifiers combined and with most astonishing results. One gentleman who used a half dozen bottles says it did him more good than treatment which cost him $1,500. Another who has used it for a scrofulous affection reports a permanent cure from its use
